Featured Speaker Cheryl Bachelder

For the last two years, Cheryl Bachelder has been working with foodservice industry leaders to advance the business case for promoting women executives to senior management roles. In a partnership between the Women’s Foodservice Forum, a 2000 – plus member organization focused on developing female leadership talent, and The Gallup Organization, the leader in data-based performance measures, Cheryl has developed groundbreaking learning on how to create a workplace where women thrive. Her work has been presented at numerous industry conventions and was published in QSR magazine in August 2005.

Prior to this work, Cheryl was President and Chief Concept Officer of KFC Corporation, located in Louisville, Kentucky, from 2000-2003. She served as Vice President of Marketing and Product Development for Domino’s Pizza from 1995-2000. Her passion for quality, innovation, and developing talent has helped revitalize brands in previous positions with RJR Nabisco, Gillette, and Procter & Gamble. She is perhaps best known for leading innovation with the launch of LifeSavers GummiSavers, the first nationally branded gummi candy, and the creation of the Domino’s HeatWave delivery bag, a patented system for keeping pizzas hotter than the competition.

Cheryl’s leadership style is characterized by inspirational vision, listening and consensus-building skills, high standards, and personal integrity. Her favorite role today is to mentor up-and-coming young female talent in the foodservice industry. Cheryl holds both a BS and MBA from Indiana University, with concentrations in marketing and finance.

Program Sponsors

The Randall L. Tobias Center for Leadership Excellence at Indiana University is a preeminent source, collaborator, and convener on the subject of leadership. The Center’s concentrated focus on cross-sectored leadership in the corporate, public service, education, and nonprofit communities distinguishes its agenda as unique among leadership programs nationwide.

Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis (IUPUI), a partnership between Indiana and Purdue universities, is Indiana’s urban research and academic health sciences campus. IUPUI’s mission is to advance the State of Indiana and the intellectual growth of its citizens to the highest levels, nationally and internationally, through research and creative activity, teaching and learning, and civic engagement. By offering a distinctive range of bachelor’s, master’s, professional, and Ph.D. degrees, IUPUI promotes the educational, cultural, and economic development of central Indiana and beyond through innovative collaborations, external partnerships, and a strong commitment to diversity.

Office for Women

INDIANA UNIVERSITY-PURDUE UNIVERSITY INDIANAPOLIS

The IUPUI Office for Women promotes an inclusive environment that benefits women and men by collaboratively and proactively addressing the diverse needs and interests of IUPUI women faculty, staff, and students; empowering women to attain their full potential; building open and welcoming work and learning environments; and promoting a safe and supportive climate free from harassment, discrimination, and privilege based on gender.

Hazelett Women in Leadership Forum

ILLUSTRATING THE QUALITIES OF EXCELLENCE NECESSARY FOR LEADERSHIP.

Welcome

We are proud to present the inaugural Hazelett Women in Leadership Forum. This program grows out of a desire to honor and hear from individuals who are successful leaders. In selecting our honorees, we depend notably, though not exclusively, on women from the great state of Indiana. We believe that this state has a deep reservoir of outstanding women who illustrate the qualities of excellence necessary for leadership.

With the generous support of Ambassador Randall L. Tobias, the Randall L. Tobias Foundation, IU Tobias Center for Leadership Excellence, IUPUI, and its Office for Women have combined efforts to create the Hazelett Women in Leadership Forum. The Hazelett Forum joins the mission of the IU Tobias Center to inspire leadership excellence with IUPUI's commitment to fostering a climate of diversity, opportunity, and equity for women and men.

To this end, the IU Tobias Center, the IUPUI Office for Women, IUPUI Chancellor Charles R. Bantz and his wife, Professor Sandra Petronio, and the IU Foundation invite the community, corporate leaders, students, and scholars to share in a learning experience focused on women leaders in all walks of life. Honorees offer insights into knowledge about leadership in the modern workplace, including their reflections on the role of gender, work/life balance, and effective communication.

We are pleased to announce that the establishment of this Forum is in honor of the late Susie Hazelett, the former Executive Director of the Randall L. Tobias Foundation. She was instrumental in helping to establish the IU Tobias Center for Leadership Excellence and we are proud to have her name associated with this important leadership forum.

The Hazelett Forum was made possible by a generous gift from Ambassador Randall L. Tobias, who wanted to honor Susie Hazelett's outstanding work for the Tobias Family Foundation, the community of Indianapolis, the state of Indiana, and for the women in these communities. By establishing this Forum within the Tobias Center, it is his hope the Forum will present at least one program each year focusing on the issues of leadership in gender, family, and work/life balance. The Hazelett Women in Leadership Forum will serve various constituencies of the university, including students, faculty, staff, alumni, and interested persons in the community, by providing a forum for knowledgeable and creative speakers to celebrate the achievements of women leaders in various walks of life and to elevate public discussions and university scholarship on women in leadership roles.

Hazelett Women in Leadership Forum

The Hazelett Women in Leadership Forum is dedicated to the memory of Suzanne "Susie" Northam Hazelett.

During Susie's life, she served the community in many different roles. In every one, she was a hero. She was a tireless volunteer who donated her time to countless organizations. Regardless of the task, Susie attacked each one with conviction, skill, and above all, a smile.

As a business professional, Susie was adept at everything she turned her attention toward. She was a teacher and education advocate who positively impacted the lives of children every day. In her role as a consultant, she helped not-for-profit organizations fulfill their missions and reach their goals.

As director of the Randall L. Tobias Foundation, and instrumental in the creation of the Randall L. Tobias Center for Leadership Excellence, Susie influenced everyone she touched with her gentle guidance, intellect, and wit.

Susie's first priority in life was her family. She was a dedicated daughter, mother, and wife who enjoyed nothing more than spending time with her family.

After a brief battle with ovarian cancer, Susie Hazelett passed away in August 2004. She is missed everyday by those who knew her.

Susie Hazelett touched and inspired many people throughout the course of her life. Through the Hazelett Women in Leadership Forum, we hope to continue her legacy and inspire others to become the type of leader Susie epitomized—one of accomplishment, warmth, passion, and an undeniable caring for everyone.
